

Engaging Stakeholders in implementation and follow up of the 2030 Agenda

A framework to analyze the quality of stakeholder engagement

VIRTUAL LAUNCHING

26 January 2021, 8:30AM – 9:45AM (EST)

Draft Concept Note and Agenda

As of 21 January 2021

Background

One of the central aspects of the United Nations 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and its Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) is the significant role that stakeholders have been assigned in their implementation, follow-up and review. While governments have the main responsibility for implementation, the 2030 Agenda calls on stakeholders from different sectors and at all levels to play different roles throughout policy-making, implementation and follow up efforts.

Six years into the implementation of the 2030 Agenda, several countries' strategies to engage stakeholders are still in the early stages. Also, many stakeholder engagement practices are strong in some ways but weak in others, with little guidance available for a systematic analysis. The COVID-19 pandemic has added to the challenge as many governments have fewer resources for, or dedicate less attention to, engaging stakeholders in implementation efforts. At the same time, it is more important than ever to ensure that there is dialogue between authorities and citizens to guide government action and maintain social cohesion.

A framework to analyze the quality of stakeholder engagement

Against this backdrop, UNDP and UNDESA have developed a framework to enable governments, stakeholders, and development partners alike to examine and strengthen the quality of their stakeholder engagement practices.

It is hoped that this framework will serve as a useful tool to help improve stakeholder engagement practices, foster dialogue, and support the sharing of lessons learned and good practices.

Online Launching

UNDP and UNDESA will organize an online webinar on 26 January 2021, from 8:30AM - 9:45AM (EST/New York Time) to introduce the stakeholder engagement analytical framework and user guide. The webinar will also include a discussion with national government representatives and stakeholders on ways to strengthen stakeholder engagement in the 2030 Agenda implementation and follow up, including considering the impact of COVID-19.

How to Participate

Interested stakeholders should register on-line here by 25 January 2021.

All interested can register to attend.
