Join leaders of government, international institutions and civil society to embark on the path to build fairer and more inclusive societies. Grounded in the UN75 resolution and in support of the Secretary General’s forthcoming Common Agenda, this high-level event will focus on practical policy options to tackle both economic inequality and group-based discrimination, overcoming divisions in the COVID-19 recovery. It will highlight why fighting inequality and exclusion at both national and international level is central to build the multilateral cooperation we need to address 21st century challenges, such as pandemics, conflict and climate change. Participants will showcase rising demand for action, and demonstrate that tackling inequality and exclusion is urgent and within our grasp if we act now. The event will mark the launch of the Pathfinders flagship report on Inequality and Exclusion, a cross-regional and multi-stakeholder partnership between member states and the UN, the World Bank, the OECD, Oxfam, Open Society Foundations, and CIVICUS.
